

Abstract

An automated device for collecting breath samples, which includes pre-programmed protocols for specified breath collection procedures and pre-programmed voice chips connected to a speaker that audibly guide a patient or subject through the 5 breath collection process. The device includes an inlet and a breath reservoir for collecting a sample before diverting it to a vessel via a valve manifold with a plurality of valves, each associated with breath collection vessel.

#2892972/1

10